

FAQS

ADRS Transition Service

[What is Vocational Rehabilitation Service (VRS)?]

VRS, a division of the Alabama Department of Rehabilitation Services (ADRS), provides various services to eligible individuals interested in improving their opportunities for employment.

[What are transition services?]

Transition services are designed to bridge the gap from high school to the adult world. Transition services consist of counseling and guidance, planning for college, vocational/technical education, competitive employment, supported employment, independent living, community integration, financial management, assistive technology, support services (transportation and maintenance, as needed).

[How can VRS help with your transition planning?]

Whether you are preparing to enter college, technical school, or go directly into the workforce, VRS can help you get ready for preparing for life after high school to adulthood.

- Vocational assessments
- Vocational guidance and counseling
- Personal work adjustment
- Job readiness training
- Job coaching
- Career preparation
- College preparation
- Social skills training
- Assistive technology/accommodations
- Job placement assistance
- Job follow-up and retention
- Financial assistance based on family need
- Post-employment services
- Others, based on individual need

[How do I get started?]

- Step One: Referral to VRS
- Step Two: Completion of an application for services
- Step Three: Determination of eligibility within 60 days of application
- Step Four: Development of an Individualized Plan for Employment (IPE)
- Step Five: Implementation of services

*To learn more about Transition Service, call 1-800-6441-7607
or visit rehab.alabama.gov/transitionservice.*

FAQS

ADRS Transition Service

[What is Vocational Rehabilitation Service (VRS)?]

VRS, a division of the Alabama Department of Rehabilitation Services (ADRS), provides various services to eligible individuals interested in improving their opportunities for employment.

[What are transition services?]

Transition services are designed to bridge the gap from high school to the adult world. Transition services consist of counseling and guidance, planning for college, vocational/technical education, competitive employment, supported employment, independent living, community integration, financial management, assistive technology, support services (transportation and maintenance, as needed).

[How can VRS help with your transition planning?]

Whether you are preparing to enter college, technical school, or go directly into the workforce, VRS can help you get ready for preparing for life after high school to adulthood.

- Vocational assessments
- Vocational guidance and counseling
- Personal work adjustment
- Job readiness training
- Job coaching
- Career preparation
- College preparation
- Social skills training
- Assistive technology/accommodations
- Job placement assistance
- Job follow-up and retention
- Financial assistance based on family need
- Post-employment services
- Others, based on individual need

[How do I get started?]

- Step One: Referral to VRS
- Step Two: Completion of an application for services
- Step Three: Determination of eligibility within 60 days of application
- Step Four: Development of an Individualized Plan for Employment (IPE)
- Step Five: Implementation of services

*To learn more about ADRS Transition Service, contact _____
at _____.*